An amusing incident occurred yes-terday at the Mayor's Court. Two noted nymphs du pare had arrested a Frenchman that was a United States soldier and stationed at Camp Russell for alleged violent treatment. The conflicting testimony of the accusers was sufficient to acquit the accused, but the Mayor asked what he had to say in defense of himself. He repeated, "anything to please your honor to get out of this trouble. I'll marry them both on pay day if you will let me off." But both of the women couldn't see it in that light. A compromise was finally made that he would marry one. All ex-pressed satisfaction and the case was discharged.

One of the most industrious Representatives of the General Assembly is Col R. Tyler Bennett, of Anson. As Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, his labors during this session have been extremely arduous. Daily since the beginning of the session, scores of bills and resolutions relating to matters of law have been intro-duced, all of which, referred to the Judiciary Committee, are compelled to be closely studied in order that no incongruity may unwittingly creep into the statute books of the State, and as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Col. > OUTRAGE UPON THE HOUSE OF REP RESENTATIVES .- The seat of Mabson, colored, a Representative from Edgecombe, has been contested, upon the ground that he had not been at the ime of his election a citizen of the county twelve months. Dick Johnson, colored, a representative from the county of Edgecombe in the last Legislature, was summoned as a witness and testified before the House Committee on Privileges and Elections.

> On yesterday, Senator Mabson, col. of New Hanover, a brother of the other Capitol, and mentioning his testimony before the committee, at once fell upon him with a stick. Before he could be stopped, Johnson was struck several blows, his head badly cut, and severe injuries inflicted.

> Johnson is here as a witness before a committee of the House of Representatives and under is protection. Mabson has been guilty of a gross contempt of the House, and the matter will doubtless at once be investigated. If the facts should be as stated above, the Senate will doubtless take decisive action in the matter. We shall see. INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TEM-

PLARS .- We learn from Theo, N. Ramsay, General Deputy, that the order of Good Templars in North Carolina is making rapid progress. The order has only been in operation in this State about four months, and numbers to-day upwards of fiteen hundred souls. This is an international order -existing not only in the United States, but in Europe. It numbers in all over half a million members, and is regarded the best and most substantial order in the world. It admits ladies to social position, has three Degrees, besides many other attractive features. The Lodge in this city is the banner Lodge of the world, numbering nearly three hundred members. We are told that the regular meetings of this Lodge are well attended. This is attributed to the fact that the meetings are highly interesting and attractive, besides being very impressive. We wish our friends in this good cause abundant success.

Bennett, of Anrailroad when it comes in our section, then we will withdraw our protest, and debate and it was decidedly interesting to outsiders.

But we think we have cause to be indignant, that denying us this poor privilege, these First District railroad men should insist on building a road for us exactly where all don't want it. Wilmington has burdened herself with an enormous debt to build up a certain system of railways. This system being near completion, has begun to make us prosperous. The First District proposes to rob us of all the advantages that would naturally accrue to us from the money we have expended in our railroads. We say coolly proposes to transfer these advantages to Norfolkand to leave as with our heavy debt without deriving any benefit therefrom. More than this -- the First Districts proposes to do this without giving us even the poor privilege of a hearing before the Internal Improvement Committee. Verily the First District is neighborly to us North Carolinians-if it is friendly to outsiders. We will long remem ber the kindness of the First District.

SHAMEFUL CONDUCT .- A negro woman, said to be from Boston, went to the house of an aged white lady in this city, Mrs. Patsy Jolly, on pretence of having a dress made. to a vote to-day, and argued at length

We promised to give, from time to time, such thoughts and suggestions that might occur to us or that might be offered by others on the subject. With the view to aid as far as may be in our power, a compromise of the present indebtedness of the State, which is out of all proportion to the taxable property within her borders, we give to day some farther suggestions for the consideration of the Legislature.

We are not wedded to any particular plan, for in a matter of so much importance to the State and her tax-payers, we stand ready to approve of any proposition that is fair to her creditors and just and honorable to the State.

We therefore, simply offer the follow ing views as suggestions to be considered rather than as propositions to be adopted-freely confessing that in a matter so complicated and so beset with difficulties, we should proceed cautiously and with extreme prudence : Delays are dangerous. By this we do not mean to intimate that the Federal Government may interfere and enforce protestion to American Credit ; or to insinuate that some wealthy Ring may influence Congress to invade onew the so-called rights of this portion of the late Military District No. 2-or even to recall the possibility of the President's requiring us to observe the provision of the Constitution of the United States. prohibiting the violation of contracts by the different States; but we mean that a failure to make a proposition now may render a settlement difficult hereafter, and place it quite out of the question in the near future. Whereas an early adjustment of the matter is of the utmost consequence to our prosperity and development. The debt on paper is $36,000,000, and this vast sum stares every enquirer concerning North Carolina full in the face. Does a Capitalist desire to invest in our mines? This debt stands a frightful sign-board to warn him off. Does an immigrant wish to locate in our State, noted for the salubrity of her climate, the fertility of her soil and the vastness of her undeveloped wealth? This debt looms up as so many reasons why he should pass on to a new home in some less embarrassed community. Do thrifty manufacturers seek available sites for cotton factories in the midst of cotton planters? With every other inducement in favor of Central North Carolina this incubus forbids their building among us. Large public indebtedness necessitates high taxes, and high taxes rob the laborer, the artisan, the manufacturer and the capitalist of their coveted profits. We solicit immigration, and invite the desired immigrants to an apparent struggle for existence beneath onerous public burdens! No wonder that out to divest our State of this frightful appendage, which thus militates so effectually against our progress, and prevents us from realizing aught through outside assistance, we ardently desire a speedy and final reduction of our public obligations. Nor can we conceive of a single reason for postponing the settlement. The proposition of compromise will have to be made, for the alternative is entire repudiation and that is not to be thought of .-So some proposition must be made, and the sooner the better, and as it will be North Carolina's ultimatum in the gremises, unless Federal power shall infor a larger amount. However, the facility with which any compromise can be carried into effect will depend on the market value of the bonds.

tervene, it must and will be accepted, holder will assuredly prefer something to nothing-a small bond yielding a

Should our hopes not prove delusive, and each succeeding year witness our progress in the work of restoration and recuperation, then will the faith of capitalists in our growing ability to pay annually increase, and we may expect a corresponding appreciation in the value of the bonds. Hence it is that a compromise will, in all probability, be more willingly agreed to now than hereafter, when the value of the bonds may be sands of dollars have flowed into Virconsiderably enhanced. In arriving at a basis of compromise the question presents itself: what is the greatest the sense of necessity on the part of the amount of interest that the State can pay borrower to be his guide, as we do in -can pay promptly and beyond the possibility of failure? We conceive that lenders in the market in order to cheap our creditors have a right to all the in- en the interest paid on loans. People terest we can pay, and we are satisfied are selfish in the use of money, and that we can at present spare one-eighth of one per cent, on the value of our real and personal estate, to be applied we can contract for 12, and the ruling that way. Hereafter we could spare a greater amount.

Say, that up to 1875, we And from then to 1850. $140,000 interest.

who have passed away; mus user sens !

We do not hesitate to say that this is possible, and practicable, and that it may be done without burdening the people with oppressive taxation.

And as the certainty of the prompt payment of interest would render the bonds more valuable than they would otherwise be to the holders, there should be incorporated into the contract some machinery for the assessment and levying of a special tax, to pay the interest annually, in such manner and form as to render any repeal thereof nugatory and void.

Another question would be, what amount of principal should the State

While we think that this, like the interest, should be placed at the highest figures, yet it would be folly to voluntarily undertake anew obligations which will require hereafter a second compromise of our indebtedness. But, on the other hand, it would be dishonorable in us to place these figures below our best ability to pay. We must avoid Scylla as well as Charybdis. It is not to be forgotten that our creditors have bought our bonds on faith in our honesty-they have no power to sue for redress,-only to sue for justice! We think our debt if reduced to seven millions would be within our control. The debt of the State before the war was rather more than that, but the debt was then evidently too large; bonds had been recklessly issued.

Should the new principal be fixed at about $7,000,000, then the interest, determined as above, would be at the rates of 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 per cent from the year 1900, as long as the bonds would continue to run. And they should run at 8 per cent. long enough to make the entire average of interest 6 per cent.

In apportioning this new principal among our creditors, we may leave out bonds issued to aid the N. C. R. R. Co., amounting to 3,500,000, inclusive of interest.

We should likewise deduct from the debt all bonds issued under authority of the Convention of 1868, as that body had no constitutionaal authority to issue bonds binding the State; also, the Special Tax Bonds which were repudiated by the Legislature of 1868-'69 -although issued under their own Acts. In fixing a scale of value for exchange to the remaining bonds, we should have regard to their actual market value and offer in new bonds a greater nominal price than the outstanding bonds bring in cash in the market. For instance, if we should offer 50 cents on the dollar for old bonds-and for bonds issued under old acts prior to 1865these classes would absorb of the new principal,

Bonds issued under the Funding Acts at 30 cents on the dollar and other new bonds at 25 cents. Making a total new debt of

We think a proposition based on the ideas and principles above specified might be fair, proper and honorable, and would be apt to be accepted by the ondholders without much discontent. But whether the proposition should be received with a howl of indignant protests or not, wet in the end it will assuredly be agreed to by the holders of siders give us a wide berth! In order the bonds. It is our part to see that the terms are such as leave no stain upon our hands !

THE USURY LAW.

There is a discussion going on in the Virginia papers on the subject of the

The present maximum of interest in Virginia is 12 per cent.

The Norfolk Virginian argues to show that this rate ought not to be reduced, and contends that in the present condition of the country, the old rate of interest will not answer the purposes of trade and commerce.

The Virginian says: "Our entire financial system was swept away in the late war, and the abolition of slavery at once reduced the basis on which loans could be negotiated and created a constant demand for ready money in the farmers' hands to certain return, to a valueless obligation pay wages. There never was such demand for current funds in agriculture as now, and the greater the competition among the lenders the better for the farmer, the merchant, the artisan-the better for any and every class that has to borrow money. Now it is preposterous to think that a rate of interest adjusted long ago to suit-if it ever suited-a different state of facts will answer for the present condition of affairs. It is simply absurd to expect money to be invested at six per cent, in loans to private persons when the government has ; gold-paying bonds, and Chicago offers 10 per cent. for money to rebuild her streets. Money in obedience to the laws of trade seeks the best market within reach, and hence it is that thousands and thouginia in the past few years. We should deal, therefore, with money as with other commodities. We should allow every other business transactions; and should endeavor to bring competing they send it where it will bring the largest returns. The legal maximum

If this is not done, North Carolina will be constantly kept poor by the efflux of capital to other States.

THE SWASEY SUIT.

In an editorial yesterday, we referred to the decree in the suit of Swasey and others against the North Carolina Railroad, and asked for an inquiry into the rumors that were current in the city, that the State had lost thirty thousand dollars by being compelled to pay all the costs and expenses of the suit.

We stated, in the same article, that we were not sufficiently familiar with the facts to make any specific charges against any persons connected with the suit, but as there were various rumors rife in the community, we thought it due to the State that an investigation be instituted into the amount of costs paid and for what purposes.

We have been promised a full and authentic statement of all the circumstances attending the decree, by a gentleman who is familiar with the whole

The amount of money actually paid out was two bundred and fifty-six thousand and five hundred dollars-not two hundred and sixty-five thousand and five hundred, as stated by us yes-

IMPORTANT FROM CONGRESS. Bills have been introduced in Congress to repeal the Tobacco tax, to refund the taxes collected on raw cotton, to repeal the tax on spirits made from fruit and to remove all political disabilities.

All these bills are important to our people.

SALARY OF THE GOVERNOR AND TREASURER.

The Senate has concurred in the House bill fixing the Gevernor's salary at $4,000, and amended that part of the bill giving the Treasurer $2,500, so as to give that officer $3,000. This was agreed to by the House, so that the matter is at last disposed of.

without a protracted debate. We believe the people of the State will approve of this action of the Legislature.

HOW THE ELECTORAL VOTE WAS CAST .- The Greeley States voted as follows at their respective capitals for President: Maryland for Hendricks, unanimously-Kentucky, Hendricks 8, Brown 4—Tennessee for Hendricks unanimously-Georgia, Brown 6, Gree ley 3, Jenkins 2-Missouri, Brown 8. Hendricks 5, D. Davis 1-Louisiana, blank. These States passed resolutions of respect to Mr. Greeley's memory The unanimous vote for Vice President was given to Gov. Brown in Maryland. Tennessee and Louisiana.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal revives the fact that Mr. Sumner's resolution for striking the names of home battles from the flags is simply a reproduction of one introduced by him in 1862, which at the time received the support of Lieutenant-General Scott and of General Anderson, at Fort Sumter. It must also be remembered, however, that there were a great many home battles after both Scott and Anderson ceased to take an active part in military operations. A writer in the Troy Press gives some interesting details, showing the corrupt condition of politics in the Nineteenth Congressional District of Now York. He says that it has cost every successful candidate of either party of Congress of the State Senate in that district for the past few years not less than $50,000 to secure an election, and that the late Isaiah Blood freeley admitted that he spent $60,000 to secure a seat in the State Senate in

Edwin Ferrest.

The sadden death of this eminent tragedian will open a flood gate of theatrical reminiscence, and touch the hearts of a great multitude of his admirers. There are critics who deny him the highest place in the whole domain of histrionic art, but in the representation of a certain class of characters, such as Coriolanus, King Lear, Othello, Metamora, Martacus, Jack Cade, he was an acknowledged master. His delineations of Macbeth and Hamlet have been more criticised; nevertheless for many years he has enjoyed a worldwide fame, and inspired the warmest partizanship. He also had bitter enemies, and since the latter accused him of being great chiefly in rant and mus cular power, it may surprise some persons, not familiar with his career, to learn that he first went on the stage in Philadelphia, in female characters. He was, then, however, a boy of twelve, having been born in Philadelphia March 9th, 1806. He made his debut in that city in male parts, November 20, 1820. His first appearance in New York was in July, 1826, as "Othello," and from that time onward his fame steadily rose until it reached its zenith some years ago. He made as successful professional tour in England in 1834. and in 1844 went a third time thither, remaining two years, having during his second visit married Miss Sinclair, from whom he parted in 1849, and from whom he was divorced, upon her suit, in 1852. Her allowance of $3,000 a year alimouy was contested by him in the Courts for several years afterwards. During his first visit to England he formed a friendship with Mr. Macready, but on the third it was ruptured, and the Astor Place Opera House riot, May 10, 1849, was occasioned by the parti-zanship to which his trouble with Macready gave rise. Mr. Forrest's age, as may be seen from the figures given above, was 66

New York Letter to the Cincl One Smith-Biographical Sketch of a Hero of "Black Friday." Henry N. Smith is known throughout the country as one of the most desperate and successful operators in Wall street. It was he who became so noted at the Black Friday time as the head of the firm of Smith, Gould & Martin: it was he who was in with Fisk in the bold operations against the Eric Rail. road; and it was he who made a corner on greenbacks last winter by carry. ing $5,000,000 on his person and lock. ing it up in the Tenth National Bankwhich last operation became the subject of Congressional inquiry. Smith came on to Washington and was examined. The Committee did not get much comfort out of his answers. They asked him if he had locked up $5,000,000 in greenbacks. He frankly said he had. They asked him why he did it. He freely acknowledged that he did it to make money by the operation, and wanted to know what the Committee intended to do about it. Without answering them the Committee asked what right he had to lock up that amount of money. Then he got angry and told them that it was none of their business; that the money was his own and he could MISS JEANIE PATTERSON arrived in do with it as he liked; and it was about this time that the Committee found they had make a mistake. Smith collected some fifty dollars witness fees and returned to New York, and this was the fact of the silly investigation. A genrican descent" in Charlotte on Saturday tleman who was a witness before the the police had occasion to draw a little committee said subsequently that Smith actually carried the $5,000,000 on his person for two days. The lining of his overcoat was filled with pockets, and nto these money was stored. Smith is about thirty-five or thirtyight years old, short of statue, slight of frame and red of hair. The latter he wears cut a la militaire or mutton chop, with mustache. His name is not Henry M. nor Henry N. Smith, but Norman Henry Smith. He is an native of Tioga, Tenn., a little village which is shut with charming grace from the outside world by a circle of hills, which in the fall present such an enchanting appearance that it clings to one's memory forever. In this pretty villege the monster operator was born, and here he is to this day called plain Tom Smith, a nick name he got when a baby. It is nothing against Tom that he spent his young days about as other village boys do, and it is nothing against him that he learned the shoemaker's trade and was an excellent workman. It is said there that Tom Smith can make the best "fine" boot of any man in America. A love scrape, if I am correctly informed, drove him from his hammer and lap stone, and took him to Buffalo a year or two before the war. While there he attended a course of instruction in one of the "business coleges" which were so common then. From this he operated in Buffalo in a could not long remain in such a place, and he turned his eyes towards New York. His course as a money maker is day it might be twenty millions and tomorrowiten. He is called the successor of Jim Fisk, but this is an insult to FALL AND WINTER GOODS, him. He possesses the same reckless daring, but brought to his experience a keener and more deliberate judgment and intelligence than Fisk had. Besides he has none of the fast qualities which Fisk possessed. He has no desire to room, and he is not likely to run a line of steamers merely to show himself in an Admiral's uniform, nor to show imself at the head of a regiment at the cost of thousands of dollars. He lives as becomes a wealthy man, and a number of the best horses that money can buy, merely for his own driving. He has considerable money invested in THE Charlotte Democrat has received | real estate invested in real estate in his native town, where he has provided handsomely for his father and mother.

Congressional Proceedings. WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 .- House .- In the House to day, General Young, of Georgia, offered his resolution regarding the Credit Mobilier, extending investigations of the committee to losses offered by his constituents from the Union Pacific Railroad. The resolution produced considerable excitement in the House. The resolution was choked of by a call for regular order. The House committee on Commerce this morning heard the figurement on the Atlantic and Great Western Canal. Much interest was manifested, and the committee room was filled at an early hour by members from Alabama, Georgia and Virginia.

Colonel B. W. Frobel opened the case in a carefully prepared address, in which he clearly pointed out the national importance and the great need of this interior line, and showed pointedly and clearly the decline of our foreign trade; the evils under which our home industries suffer; the causes which force the manufacturer to seek protection and the depressing influences operating against the South and West. out the cause of the evi and the remedy to be applied, which he stated was clearly set forth in the President's message, and closed with a glowing description of the future to this country, with every section reunited again in the bonds of peace and good will toward each other. The argument was listened to with marked attention. Colonel Price followed in an able argument on the beneficial effect of this outlet in regulating the money market of the country,

The Committee will report the bill at an early day. The views of these gentlemen attract attention as showing that the South is taking a deep interes t in the material prosperity of the country, and that she is looking closely into the question of national trade and finance with the object not of throwing obstacles in the way, but herself taking step to the music of advancement.

Col. Whitley, Gen'ls. Jubase and Young took part in the discussion, and ably seconded the efforts of Col. Price

SENATE.—Special committee on Internal Improvements, Windom, Sherman, Conkling, Ames, Lees, Casserly and Norwood. Mr. Price offered a resolution to in-
